Fostering Pro-Social Digital Youth Through Making

Project Overview

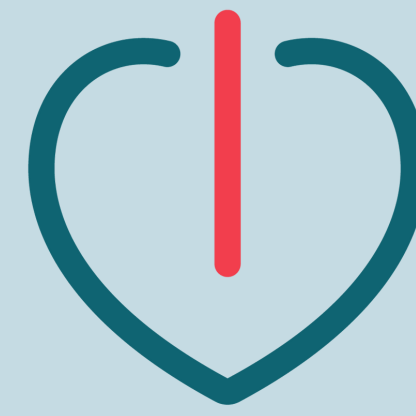

Ontario Tech U (OTU) and Tech for Good Canada (TFGC) are collaborating on a research project aimed at studying online Canadian youth activism and promoting pro-social civic engagement with digital media.

The research project includes an online social activism challenge called, "We Stop Scrolling" [bit.ly/WeStopScrolling]; a challenge kick-off conference where students will learn more about the challenge, online social activism, & other important things to consider in social media posts; mentorship by B.Ed. students throughout the challenge & a wrap-up meeting where content generated during the challenge will be shared & prizes will be given out.

OTU & TFGC will also offer professional learning opportunities for interested teachers on topics like critical digital citizenship.

Project info session for teachers on Oct. 14th, 2021.
